GREATEST SHAKEUP IN HISTORY

FORCEMENTNEW FEDERAL REGIME TO BE ORGANIZED UNDER ANDREWS

(By United Press)

New York, July 18.—Every prohibition director in the country is due to lose his job within the next two months, Roy A. Haynes, federal prohibition director, announced here.

The greatest shakeup in the history of prohibition enforcement will start August 1st and terminate on September 15th.

Within that period the new federal regime under Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lincoln C. Andrews will reorganize its groups of agents throughout the United States. Many agents undoubtedly will be re-appointed upon merit or because of their knowledge of conditions in their present locality. The blanket removal from office of all is intended to give Andrews a free hand to drop and retain whom he pleases without any embarrassments that might be occasioned if formal discharge were necessary.

WOMAN FIGHTS MAN IN VAIN EFFORT TO PREVENT SUICIDE

St. Paul, July 18.—Paul A. Anderson, 212 17th ave. n., Minneapolis, fought off a woman who tried to dissuade him and leaped into the river from the 10th ave. bridge, Minneapolis.

The body was recovered from the water by police an hour later.

Mrs. Laura N. Halse, 1911 Park ave., Minneapolis, saw Anderson standing on the bridge, taking off his cap and coat. She saw he was going to jump and she ran up to him and called for help.

For a moment Mrs. Halse was able to hold him, but before anyone came to her assistance, Mr. Anderson fought her off and climbed over the railing.

Mrs. Halse is an agent for the Hennepin County Rescue league.

Several vehicles passed over the bridge while she was struggling with Anderson, but none of the drivers heard her cries for assistance in preventing the suicide.

Final Determination of
Twin City Street Car
Fight in Federal Court

St. Paul, July 18.—Final determination of the Twin City street car fight is up to the federal court.

The street railway company of Minneapolis and St. Paul won an important victory over the state railroad and warehouse commission yesterday in district courts of Hennepin and Ramsey counties. Petitions of the state governing body for injunctions to prevent the street car company from violating a commission fare order were dismissed in both courts.

The railroad and warehouse commission on July 3 fixed the rate of fare at 8 cents cash and 10 tokens for 60 cents. In federal court the street car companies contend the rate of fare would be confiscatory. They are seeking to establish a flat 7 cent fare.

Members of the railroad and warehouse commission today refused to discuss future plans.

In the first test, the experts found it took ten college women .56 second to react to danger and men .59. In the second test, the variability of ten women was only .17 second, while that of men was .22 second.

(By United Press)

Dayton, Tenn., July 18.—Dayton's day in the sun is waning. The Scopes' trial to all intents and purposes, is over. A few days of oratory in which William Jennings Bryan sums up in triumph and Clarence Darrow fights back in defeat, and the young defendant will be found guilty, and the case which put this little Tennessee town in the spotlight will be over.

Attorney-General Stewart said today that Judge Raulston's ban on introduction of scientific evidence means that next Tuesday night the case will be closed and trains to the north, east, south and west will be laden with departing experts, counsel, correspondents and visitors.

There was a scant possibility that Judge Raulston, after perusing 12,000 words of scientific evidence, would reverse himself and permit the jury to hear the experts brought here by Clarence Darrow and his associates. But the chance was slight.

NEW DRY CHIEF
FACES REAL TESTTHE POLITICIANS ARE MAKING
READY TO SELECT DISTRICT
PROHIBITION HEADS

Washington, July 18.—Plans of Brig. Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews to take prohibition out of politics soon will be given the acid test.

Sen. Charles Curtis of Kansas, republican whip of the senate, has recommended George W. Wark, present federal prohibition director of Kansas, as the new prohibition administrator for the district comprising Kansas, Nebraska and Iowa. Sen. Arthur Capper of Kansas has joined in the recommendation.

Wark, a business man, is said to have considerable political influence in Kansas.

If he is appointed presumption is he will be under the domination of the senators just as are other federal office holders who owe their jobs to senators.

Gen. Andrews, in one of his early announcements concerning the reorganization of the prohibition machinery, said senatorial recommendations will be welcomed on the same basis as suggestions from any other group of citizens. Senators, he indicated, would wield no especial influence.

Andrews, however, is serving under a recess appointment and confirmation of his job must be obtained at the next session of the senate. This recollection may cause him to give a little extra consideration to senatorial suggestions.

Other senators, in the meantime, are awaiting results. Sen. Frank B. Willis, who has dominated prohibition appointments in Ohio, is anxious to continue doing so. He seeks re-election next summer.

In Pennsylvania, Senators George Wharton Pepper and David A. Reed, long dissatisfied with prohibition conditions, are watching developments. Reed in particular is anxious for a cleanup in western Pennsylvania.

Andrews, no longer as communicative as heretofore, has gone into executive session with himself and some of his assistants in the prohibition bureau.

He is trying to pick the personnel of his own administrators. He wants to take these officials out of politics but he does not want to offend United States senators yet.

U. S. IS SUPPLYING WORLD WITH GOLDFLOW OF YELLOW METAL IS OUTBOUND—WILL IM-PROVE COMMERCE

Washington, July 18.—A great stream of gold is flowing from America to foreign lands in all parts of the world.

Growing in volume each month, it is rapidly reaching the proportions of the great gold flood which deluged New York during the five years just after the World war.

Compilations made by the Federal reserve board show that since Dec. 1, 1924 a total of $175,000,000 in gold has been shipped abroad. This compares with a total of only $75,000,000 during the period from Jan. 1, 1922 to Dec. 1, 1924.

Still more striking is the cessation of the American-bound flow of gold. For four years, gold had been coming to America from all parts of the world at an annual rate of nearly $500,000,000. From January 1, 1921 to Dec. 1, 1924 the excess of gold imports over exports was approximately $1,600,000,000, or about $400,000,000 each year.

Now imports are negligible. Even the small shipments which have continued to come in during the past months are showing signs of drying up, while indications point to a still more rapid outward flow.

The change in the gold tide has had two important effects upon American commerce—effects which are only becoming noticeable gradually. One is the tightening of money con-

REPRIEVE OF
GOVERNOR GIVES
FRESH HOPES

(By United Press)

SCOTT HAS 6 DAYS TO RAISE A REASONABLE DOUBT THAT HE KILLED DRUG CLERK

MUCH EXPECTED FROM TESTI-MONY OF BALL, TELEGRAPH
OPERATOR

(By United Press)

Chicago, July 18.—Fresh hope of escaping the gallows came today to Russell Scott, former millionaire, as his friends and relatives frantically sought evidence and witnesses. By terms of Governor Len Small's 11th hour reprieve, Scott has six days in which to raise a reasonable doubt that he killed Joseph Maurer, a drug store clerk.

A telegram from James M. Ball, Detroit telegraph operator, was Scott's chief hope of going free.

Small was expected in Chicago some time today to investigate Russell's claim that it was not he, but his brother, Robert, who shot Maurer.

BALL NEVER TOLD
WIFE OF SHOOTING

Detroit, Mich., July 18.—If James M. Ball, telegraph operator, witnessed the shooting of Joseph Maurer, drug store clerk in Chicago, he failed to inform his wife, Sarah, she told reporters today.

Mrs. Ball, who was interviewed at her small two-room apartment in which she and her six children live, said she heard the first accounts of her husband's testimony from the newspapers which carried Ball's picture.

"I do not know anything about this Scott business," she said, "please find Jim and tell him to come home. He was angry Thursday night when I asked him to come home to bed and turn out the light. He got up and went out. Last night he was out again."

The mysterious telegram that saved Scott's life was sent from Detroit at 10:30 P. M. Thursday.

Mrs. Ball said her husband had been worried over something during the past two days and that he had not worked.

"He has been reading newspapers about the Scott case for weeks. For three or four days he has been talking nothing but the Scott case. I got tired listening to it."

"I do not know whether he saw anyone killed in Chicago or not, but I don't think if he had he could have kept it from me this long. He is peculiar at times and has caused me much worry."

Ball told reporters today he was ready to go immediately to Chicago to prove that Russell Scott did not shoot James Maurer, but that his brother, Robert, did the shooting.

"He was in the store at the time of the shooting," Ball said. "There was no holdup and furthermore Robert Scott, and not Russell Scott, did the shooting. Robert is much younger looking than his brother. The two brothers came in and demanded of Maurer the money which they said the store owed them. I gathered from the words that it was a whiskey deal and paid particular attention to the brothers. Words flew fast between Maurer and Robert Scott, but there was no evidence of a holdup. It was not long before customers were crowded about everywhere. Russell stepped in between his brother and Maurer when he saw the words were going to lead to serious trouble and said the sum was too trivial to make so much fuss over."

"Robert began to swear and when Maurer told him he could collect nothing from the store, the younger Scott became abusive. Finally Maurer ordered Robert to get out of the store and stay out. Maurer raised his hand with something — I don't know whether it was a knife or a bottle. Robert Scott bent forward and Maurer suddenly crumpled to the floor as several shots rang out."

These terms will be virtually in the form of an ultimatum, as Krim will be told he must give a yes or no reply.

GIRL CLINGS TO HARROWING TALE OF ABUSE

RANCH WOMAN AUTHORESS SAYS PRETTY GIRLS SHACKLED TO BED POSTS

SAYS DOPE SMUGGLING AND UNDERGROUND VICE IS RAMPANT

(By United Press)

Santa Ana, Cal., July 18.—Still clinging to her harrowing story of kidnapping, dope smuggling and underground vice dens where pretty girls were shackled to bed posts by Oriental, Mrs. Virginia Lee Cookson, ranch woman authoress was taken to a San Diego sanitarium today. Although authorities disbelieve the story that she was abducted by kidnapers and held prisoner in abduction on the Mexican border, the pretty authoress insisted that her story of her experiences was true.

Mrs. Cookson vanished suddenly Tuesday. Her deserted automobile was found in Orange County with some slippers, torn clothing and wisps of hair. The woman stepped into police headquarters Thursday night.

ditions with accompanying higher interest rates. The other is the better markets created in foreign countries.

This second effect is regarded by government financial experts as likely to be the more far-reaching. Increased purchasing power on the part of the countries now importing gold from America is destined to accelerate business and to make for world prosperity.

Many countries, notably the European nations which suffered from the World war, have been unable to purchase staples such as wheat and copper in the quantities needed.

With the freer gold movement they are expected to enter the world markets in a big way. An immediate effect of this increased buying power has been an increase in the wholesale price of copper, most of which is produced in North and South America.

REPRIEVE OF GOVERNOR GIVES FRESH HOPES

SCOTT HAS 6 DAYS TO RAISE A REASONABLE DOUBT THAT HE KILLED DRUG CLERK

MUCH EXPECTED FROM TESTIMONY OF BALL, TELEGRAPH OPERATOR

(By United Press)

Chicago, July 18.—Fresh hope of escaping the gallows came today to Russell Scott, former millionaire, as his friends and relatives frantically sought evidence and witnesses. By terms of Governor Len Small's 11th hour reprieve, Scott has six days in which to raise a reasonable doubt that he killed Joseph Maurer, a drug store clerk.

A telegram from James M. Ball, Detroit telegraph operator, was Scott's chief hope of going free.

Small was expected in Chicago some time today to investigate Russell's claim that it was not he, but his brother, Robert, who shot Maurer.

BALL NEVER TOLD WIFE OF SHOOTING

Detroit, Mich., July 18.—If James M. Ball, telegraph operator, witnessed the shooting of Joseph Maurer, drug store clerk in Chicago, he failed to inform his wife, Sarah, she told reporters today.

Mrs. Ball, who was interviewed at her small two-room apartment in which she and her six children live, said she heard the first accounts of her husband's testimony from the newspapers which carried Ball's picture.

"I do not know anything about this Scott business," she said, "please find Jim and tell him to come home. He was angry Thursday night when I asked him to come home to bed and turn out the light. He got up and went out. Last night he was out again."

The mysterious telegram that saved Scott's life was sent from Detroit at 10:30 P. M. Thursday.

Mrs. Ball said her husband had been worried over something during the past two days and that he had not worked.

"He has been reading newspapers about the Scott case for weeks. For three or four days he has been talking nothing but the Scott case. I got tired listening to it."

"I do not know whether he saw anyone killed in Chicago or not, but I don't think if he had he could have kept it from me this long. He is peculiar at times and has caused me much worry."

Ball told reporters today he was ready to go immediately to Chicago to prove that Russell Scott did not shoot James Maurer, but that his brother, Robert, did the shooting.

"He was in the store at the time of the shooting," Ball said. "There was no holdup and furthermore Robert Scott, and not Russell Scott, did the shooting. Robert is much younger looking than his brother. The two brothers came in and demanded of Maurer the money which they said the store owed them. I gathered from the words that it was a whiskey deal and paid particular attention to the brothers. Words flew fast between Maurer and Robert Scott, but there was no evidence of a holdup. It was not long before customers were crowded about everywhere. Russell stepped in between his brother and Maurer when he saw the words were going to lead to serious trouble and said the sum was too trivial to make so much fuss over."

"Robert began to swear and when Maurer told him he could collect nothing from the store, the younger Scott became abusive. Finally Maurer ordered Robert to get out of the store and stay out. Maurer raised his hand with something—I don't know whether it was a knife or a bottle. Robert Scott bent forward and Maurer suddenly crumpled to the floor as several shots rang out."

Woman Ranks With Man in Intellectual Force

There is a small group of scientists to whom women owe an everlasting debt of gratitude. These are the psychologists who have produced the mental yardstick—the intelligence test—and have thus furnished the fairer sex with the final convincing argument to refute the ancient and odious charge that women have less brains than men.

The intelligence tests have given the scientific answer to the question: Who are more intelligent, men or women? And the answer is so conclusive that it leaves no room for appeal or evasion. The test scores of hundreds of thousands of children and young people of both sexes in schools and colleges have furnished the evidence. One noted psychologist declares that according to numerous tests he has made on school children under fourteen years the girls actually score one or two points higher than the boys.

Still another point of difference between the sexes, as revealed by the tests, is that women's scores do not fluctuate either above or below the average nearly so much as do men's. The very high grades—also the very low ones—are generally made by men. Nature always equalizes. And when the grand average is drawn we discover that the ancient notion of masculine mental superiority is a hoax.

The extremes reached by men in the tests may perhaps give us the clue to another reason why the world has produced a few men geniuses, but no women—and why the institutions for the feeble-minded contain more men than women. It is from the highest levels that the genius comes, and from the lowest the nut. And, as we have just learned, both of these levels contain more men than women. The fallacy of the past has been to consider these few intellectual prodigies as samples of the whole male half of the race. We must, therefore, conclude that the woman given to our father Adam was not only bone of his bone and flesh of his flesh—as the theologians tell us—but also brain of his brain. The sons of Adam and the daughters of Eve are possessed of the same intellectual equipment.—Kingsley Grey in the Designer Magazine.

Musical Bargain

John McCormack, the famous singer, receives many letters from aspirants to musical fame.

At a dinner in New York Mr. McCormack read a letter that had been sent him under the erroneous impression that he taught voice production. The letter, dated the Middle West, ran: "Friend John: Please let me know your lowest rates for full correspondence course in voice production. I have no voice, but as the efficiency engineer business is not what it was represented to me to be in the International Efficiency School of Correspondence, I desire to abandon same in favor of grand opera, and if you can produce me a fine tenor voice I will be glad to pay, in addition to regular charges, a cash bonus and a generous percentage of salary receipts for a term of years."

Immense Water Project

The city of Manchester, England, has launched a water-power scheme which will cost $50,000,000. Haweswater, a little Westmoreland lake, is to be turned into a reservoir to hold 20,000,000,000 gallons of water, give a supply of 70,000,000 gallons daily, and thus solve Manchester's water problem for a hundred years. To do this will take ten years and involve the building of an aqueduct 84 miles long. Haweswater is 100 feet above Thirlmere, from which Manchester is at present drawing water, but it will have to be raised 90 feet. The picturesque valley of Mardale Green will be submerged under the new Haweswater, but the quaint old village church is to be rebuilt on higher ground.

Mother Commutes Over Sea

Mrs. Maren Christensen, who has eight children and a husband in Denmark and seven children living in the United States, will "commute" every six months or so between the two countries in order to spend a portion of her time with the two groups forming her family. The Christensens decided two years ago to come to America to live, but were frustrated in their plans because of the immigration quota difficulties. She was informed, however, that she could visit for six months in each year and thereupon she made her plans to "commute" every now and then until such time as the entire family can enter the country.

Celebrated Inn

A memorial tablet was recently unveiled at Bath, England, to mark the site of the historic White Hart inn which Dickens introduced into "Pickwick Papers." It was a famous coaching house in the Seventeenth century. It was at the White Hart inn that the poets Thomas Moore, George Crabbe and W. L. Bowles often met; and there, also, Sir Edward Bulwer-Lytton and Benjamin Disraeli, in their early days, appeared at dinner in magnificent attire, including black velvet tights and silk stockings.

Angels Bothered Him

"One night I seen de angels settin' 'round ter keep company wid me," said Brother Williams, "but dey had sich inquirin' ways 'bout 'em, I 'lowed dat de bes' thing I could do wuz ter head fer de highway an' give 'em de whole house!"—Atlanta Constitution.

THANKS FOR EDITORIAL MENTION

THOMAS H. CANFIELD, secretary and general manager of the Minnesota State Fair, State Agricultural Society, writing the BRAINERD DISPATCH, says:

"I note clipping from your issue of July 11, acknowledging receipt of the premium list of the Minnesota State Fair and Northwest Dairy Exposition. I thank you very much for the editorial mention of the fair.

"The governing board of the State Agricultural Society is representative of the different localities and different farming and business interests of the state, and its effort at all times is to put on the greatest educational exhibition that it can, without costing the state any great sum of money. As a matter of fact, the society has from its earnings put back more money into the property in the last fifteen years than the sum appropriated direct by the state. In fact the state has made no direct appropriation for any new building on the fair grounds except that for the cattle barn, in the last 17 years.

"I am very glad to note that Crow Wing county has again decided to present an agricultural exhibit at the fair and I hope that it will be of such high quality that the county will receive due credit for its efforts in this line. I hope that you personally will be able to get away for a few days to attend the fair."

We have seen the state fairs in Iowa, Illinois and other states and can vouch for the fact that our Minnesota State Fair is the peer of all State Fair expositions. In comprehensive exhibits, in arrangements, in attendance, in instruction and recreation provided, in value of premium lists, in its wonderful management, in its living up to all promises made, in its publicity accorded the commonwealth it serves, our Minnesota State Fair approaches the plane of many a national or foreign exposition. Every citizen may well be proud of our Minnesota State Fair. It is an established institution. It does not, however, rest its reputation solely on past performances, but is ever striving to increase its prestige and to be of further and wider service to the state.

Communities should make it a point to see that the young folks of the farms, the large and small towns of the state are given the opportunity to see the State Fair. A few days at the Fair will teach them more about the wonderful resources of Minnesota, its varied industries, and will impress these facts in more permanent form, than years of study of school text books.

$900,000 FOR ADVERTISING

"CROPS AND MARKETS," statistical information, authoritative and accurate, published by the government, tells how California citrus fruits were more widely advertised. The industry, its development, and the paid publicity accorded it, reads like a romance. One does not have to read far to see that lemon growers believe in legitimate publicity as a sales stimulant. In the experience of these lemon growers there crops out a big moral, of which every business man can take advantage. Legitimate advertising is a tonic for business. It helps cement relations with old customers and it gains new ones.

In round figures, the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, Los Angeles, had available $900,000 for advertising of the 1923-1924 citrus crop. Because of the increased production of citrus fruits in California and Florida and because of the large fraction of the California orange crop which was undersize due to unfavorable weather, it was believed necessary to make unusual merchandising inducements. It was important to increase the unit of sale.

Oranges in many districts were sold by the peck, and special sales with special prices on odd quantities were conducted. As lemon shipments were 53 per cent in excess of the preceding year, intensive sales methods had to be employed to dispose of the fruit in the hands of the exchange. An increased quantity of citrus fruit was exported to Honolulu and the Orient, and the shipments to the United Kingdom were three times those of any recent year. Since 1916, the lowest annual appropriation for advertising was $215,000, which occurred in 1918.

The $900,000 advertising campaign included 53,000,000 copies of full color-pages in magazines with national circulation and 175,000,000 insertions in daily newspapers in the United States and Canada. In addition, farm papers were used, also, trade papers, posters, window displays, and special news articles in newspapers and magazines. More than a million especially prepared bulletins for classroom instruction were supplied to schools. The support and cooperation of 3,000 jobbers and 400,000 retailers who handle oranges and lemons were enlisted.

During the year the exchange's 17 service men "personally visited 44,000 retail stores, and, in addition to giving advice and suggestions on fruit sales, placed in store windows 225,000 pieces of Sunkist and Red Ball display material."

FISHING

ONE of the greatest joys connected with fishing is in telling the yarns. At the Brainerd Tourist camp last night a solid hour was devoted to the recitation of fish stories and some strenuous ones were related.

As sometimes happens, the best story teller may in fact be the worst fisherman. We remember one of Pete Cardle's bull moose stories, the best we ever heard, which wound up with the blunt statement that Pete missed getting the beast.

As long as a fisherman can get an audience he is well satisfied, but woe the lone disciple of Izaak Walton who comes home from a fishing trip, well laden with the spoils of the chase and a stock of new angling stories, and finds no one to serve as an audience to receive his lectures.

"THE REFORMATORY PILLAR," published by inmates of the reformatory at St. Cloud, is at times most fearless in its criticism of film plays shown within its walls.

THE Brainerd lake region had its siege of hot weather, but nobody was prostrated. There is always a lake or river to jump in to avoid disintegration.

By a remarkable coincidence gasoline took a cent jump just at the time when tourist travel is the heaviest.

BRAINERD ice cream is such good stuff that it just melts away, irrespective of weather conditions.

SIMPLE HOMES IN CENTRAL AMERICA

Peons Satisfied With Primitive Abodes.

The peons' houses are made of poles. The poles are covered with a kind of palm leaf called Yaguas. These are laid like shingles on the roof and sides and tied with narrow strips of the same leaf, which when dampened is very flexible, enough so as to tie it into knots, but which upon drying will shrink enough to draw the big leaves tight against the poles. This makes a strong hut with water-tight roof and a good protection against the wind. There are generally two doors, back and front, but no windows.

The floor is in some instances made of the outside slabs cut from a palm tree, split out from four to six inches wide, the length being cut with a machete before the wood gets too dry. These slabs are held in place on the floor-poles by a few nails, and the upper side of the floor slabs is often brought to almost a piano polish by the constant rubbing of dirty clothes, grease and other things, for it is not the custom ever to wash the floor.

In many instances the entire family sleeps on the floor, with nothing to soften the hardness thereof and no covering, other than the clothes they wear during the day. The household tools, such as tables and chairs, in some instances, were not necessary, as the floor acted in the capacity for both.

The other things include a cast-iron kettle of 12-inch diameter by 5 inches deep, called caldero, in which the coffee beans are roasted. The roasted beans are then crushed by being pounded in a wooden mortar, called a mortero, which is made by hollowing out the end of a hardwood log some 15 inches in diameter by 3 feet high, to a depth of a foot, by the application of fire and then scraped to a smooth surface by a machete.

The pestle, called a majadera de mortero, is also of very hard wood, shaped by patiently chipping it into shape with a machete. The kettle referred to above is also used for making a stew, called sancoco. To this stew they add roots and leaves, to suit the taste. The boiling of green plantains called platanos is done in this very useful household tool; the platanos are used in place of our potatoes.

The man of the house always wears a machete, a sword-knife hung from some kind of belt around the waist (in countries where the laws do not forbid such weapons), and with this knife he cuts the cane, firewood, brush and grass and defends his family and himself from enemies. The edge of his machete is kept very keen, as it is his proudest possession, and some of the peons are experts in the use of it.

A very important item in the lives of these people is the tobacco they use for chewing, which is called tabaco hilado, pronounced by the native as if spelled tar-bar-ko-e-low. Both the men and women chew this. It is very strong; is made into ropes and sold by the vara—about 32 inches. I tried this tobacco once, and was perfectly satisfied that the kind made in the United States of America suited me much better.—By Mr. Emerson, Adventure Magazine.

Miners' Gas Masks

Danger of mine deaths through smothering by poisonous gases is being reduced in the Illinois coal fields by equipping the workers with "self-rescuers," tested and approved by the federal bureau of mines. They are designed to give the wearer half an hour or more after the gas surrounds him before he is overcome, and consist of a pinch clamp for the nostrils attached to a small can with a mouth-piece. The device is worn in the pocket or on the belt and is inclosed in a sort of brass case that may be ripped open by hand. When the fumes arise, the breathing apparatus is quickly adjusted and, by inhaling and exhaling through the mouth into the can, the miner is protected from the poison for at least half an hour, and has a chance to seek escape.

Golf Ball Kills Crab

Many stories emanate from the various clubs about Detroit. Birds have been killed by flying golf balls, rabbits have been slain and numerous and sundry other unique incidents have been reported. The latest one is told by Dr. W. C. Melvin, Hamilton avenue dentist, who claims to have killed a lobster-sized crab with his white pill. Doctor Melvin says that he was driving from the eighth tee at Meadowbrook Country club when his ball hit something and stopped dead. He says he found that the ball hit a huge crab which had wandered onto the fairway from a nearby creek. And that's one more for the boys to shoot at.—Detroit News.

Home, Sweet Home

The approach of a storm, one not summer afternoon, was being eagerly watched by a mother and her children. Little Johnny manifested considerable fright.

"Maybe, children," said the mother, seeking to appease the little boy, "Jesus will come, give us wings, and take us all to heaven."

Her words seemed only to aggravate Johnny's fear and he began to cry.

"What is the matter, Johnny?" asked one of the older children. Between sobs, the little fellow answered:

"I don't want to leave home, and I've no business with wings, besides."—Indianapolis News.

RUSTED RAILS

For 40 miles across the fields the track was laid. For a few years engines puffed by hauling heavy loads of freight. Then something happened—the line was abandoned and for 15 years there has been no traffic. Nothing now remains of the once active railroad but rusted rails.

Every man's life has some areas traversed by rusted rails. Fine interests which once occupied the attention and filled the soul with great ideals and aspirations have been allowed to fall into neglect.

Charles Darwin, in his youth, was an excellent musician and an intelligent reader of poetry, but years of scientific study absorbed his attention and in his late years music became stupidly dull and poetry positively distasteful to him.

On the walls of a home in our city there hang nearly a score of paintings more than ordinarily creditable. "Mother did them before the children were born but she hasn't touched a brush in 15 years," is the explanation you get from the family. Rusted rails!

"I haven't time to read, my business keeps me tied so close," says the business man who was, a few years ago, a brilliant college man equally conversant with literature, philosophy and world politics. Today he is merely a business machine. More rusted rails!

"We used to go to church. We ought to go now, but we have just lost the habit." "When John and I were first married we used to take a lot of little trips together, but we haven't been anywhere together for years." "I used to sing in the choir, but I have gotten clear away from it of late years." Can't you see the rusted rails behind these comments?

The scenery along that abandoned line of railroad is as beautiful as ever. There is just as much freight to be hauled. There are fascinating hours to be spent with books, at church and in the family's company.

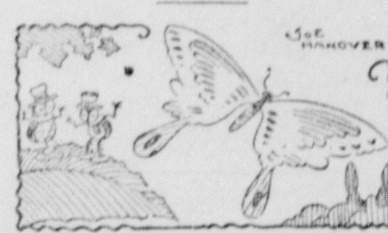

Try a trip over the rusted rails tomorrow!

Erases Wrinkles in Less Than 15 Minutes

Scientists have at last taken up seriously the problem of removing wrinkles and age lines. Many experiments have been made. The result indicates that the "tackroot method" is the best because it produces immediate results with perfect safety and comfort. It consists merely in spreading over the face a mixture of powdered tackroot, one spoonful and lemon juice, one spoonful. In your mirror, before your very eyes, you can watch the wrinkles and saginess literally melt away—in less than 15 minutes! The sensation from this brief treatment is most refreshing. The effect is far better than that produced by the most expert massage. Tackroot is so harmless you could eat it. And the cost per treatment is trifling—less than three cents when purchased in the original package at any drug store.—Adv.

Paris Forecasts Fashion Changes

Gradual Flare to Replace Sudden Hemline Widening—Waistline.

The wheels of fashion have acquired a momentum that indicates interesting and far-reaching developments for summer and autumn, declares a Paris fashion correspondent in the New York Herald-Tribune. The mid-season Paris showings and the professional fall exhibitions, also held in Paris, forecast fashion changes during the next few months which will reach the very foundations of the mode. For the benefit of those who always desire to be among the advance guard of fashion, a few of the predicted developments are appended.

The flared hemline was the important contribution of spring styles and those who feared that its vogue was only momentary and that the perennial straight line would soon resume its wonted place may rest their troubled minds. The flare is here to stay, at least for another season, and its autumn niche is already assured.

But it is assuming new forms and its late summer and autumn manifestations may bear little resemblance to the flare as it is now recognized. In the first place, instead of the sudden hemline widening of the present mode, the tendency is toward a gradual skirt distension, commencing at the waistline and widening gradually until it reaches the skirt hem. Instead of the circular cut, which was responsible for the sudden hemline effect, gored treatments are used, and they are accountable for the slower and more gradual

Graceful Lines, Subtle Colors in Girls' Frocks

Showing a charming American frock of flower print whose straight lines and subtle colors accentuate the slim grace of youth.

Variety of Colors and Patterns in Tub Silks

Tub silks are shown this season in a bewildering variety of colors and patterns. They make the prettiest, smartest and most serviceable frocks for many occasions for both town and country. Most of the stripes, which are so fashionable, the checks and plaids are made in the plain tailored manner. For the other patterns a tunic model is thought to be good, and so are the plaited, flounced and godet designs that depart slightly from the more severe lines. The tub silks are many, in attractive styles for girls and young women, for whom they are particularly appropriate in the pretty fresh tints and jolly patterns.

A large assortment of cotton voiles and crepes is being offered by some of the large city shops, materials of good quality, attractive designs and color combinations. These, especially in the more sheer weaves, will make very inexpensive, desirable little frocks for morning and for the country.

Another type of material is the heavy printed linen, which is shown in a greater variety as the season advances. These are in rather bold patterns, of geometric and cubist tendencies, and are rather highly colored in intense purples and blues, the new reds and vivid greens. These are not inexpensive, but they are unusual and smart.

An Elaborate Ensemble in Rose-Beige Voile

An effective and unusually elaborate ensemble from a prominent Paris house consists of a gown of rose-beige voile in a pattern outlined with gilt and glass beads, with small nosegays painted at intervals. The coat is of plain voile in the same shade, trimmed only with small diagonal tucks, with choker of orange fox. A stunning ensemble in black and white has a loose, sleeveless coat of flite lace over a straight-line frock of finely plaited black georgette.

Smart Pouch Bags Are in Various Materials

It is difficult to interest women in anything but pouch bags this season. The material may be almost anything, but it is a foregone conclusion that the new bag will be a variation of the pouch. Tapestries, petit point, brocades, faille, moire and leathers of various kinds all lend themselves to the uses of the smart little pouch bag. It almost inevitably has gold piping, with gilt or jeweled chain handle and frame.

Color combinations continue the rule. Some of the cleverest of the new bags show two colors of moire made up together, a combination which is going particularly well being in shades of lavin green and blonde. Black and white is always a good combination, and so is black and red. Both may be seen in both fabrics and leathers.

Consider Leghorn for Summer

On all sides there is evidence that the large hat is once more looked upon with favor. Few more charming exponents of the mode for the larger hat are to be found than wide-brimmed leghorns which have soft collapsible crowns of velvet and are widely flanged with the same material. In brown velvet and natural color they are particularly smart.

Novel Sports Coats

Among the smart novelties are top-coats made of velveteen in natural shades or in brilliant sports colors, orange, green, rose, powder blue, beige and gray being featured. The coats are fashioned on plain tailored lines.

Scene from RIN-TIN-TIN in "TRACKED IN THE SNOW COUNTRY" A WARNER PICTURE

Dog Star Superb in Mystery Film of North Woods

"Tracked in the Snow Country," the Warner Bros. Screen Classic which will be shown at the New Park on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, introduces Rin-Tin-Tin, the "Wonder Dog," in a role slightly different from any other in which he has yet appeared. The dog starts out as the villain—not the hero—of the piece and for a considerable portion of the action is far from the lovable character he has been in all of his previous pictures.

The story has to do with an old gold miner in the Far North who has discovered a fabulously rich mine and is working it in secret for fear someone will steal it away from him. His only companions in his little cabin home are his daughter and his faithful dog, Rin-Tin-Tin. He is murdered and circumstantial evidence seems to indicate that his dog has killed him. Rin-Tin-Tin becomes a fugitive from justice.

Paris Forecasts Fashion Changes

Gradual Flare to Replace Sudden Hemline Widening—Waistline.

The wheels of fashion have acquired a momentum that indicates interesting and far-reaching developments for summer and autumn, declares a Paris fashion correspondent in the New York Herald-Tribune. The mid-season Paris showings and the professional fall exhibitions, also held in Paris, forecast fashion changes during the next few months which will reach the very foundations of the mode. For the benefit of those who always desire to be among the advance guard of fashion, a few of the predicted developments are appended.

The flared hemline was the important contribution of spring styles and those who feared that its vogue was only momentary and that the perennial straight line would soon resume its wonted place may rest their troubled minds. The flare is here to stay, at least for another season, and its autumn niche is already assured.

But it is assuming new forms and its late summer and autumn manifestations may bear little resemblance to the flare as it is now recognized. In the first place, instead of the sudden hemline widening of the present mode, the tendency is toward a gradual skirt distension, commencing at the waistline and widening gradually until it reaches the skirt hem. Instead of the circular cut, which was responsible for the sudden hemline effect, gored treatments are used, and they are accountable for the slower and more gradual

Variety of Colors and Patterns in Tub Silks

A stunning ensemble in black and white has a loose, sleeveless coat of filet lace over a straight-line frock of finely plaited black georgette.

Many different styles of trimming are illustrated in the transparent coats of both plain and figured material—ribbons, silk ruching and fringe. The slightly curved waistline is shown by some of the couturiers. There is relation of the transparent coat to the frock, creating delightful harmonies of color, a charming effect with all white, which will be particularly stylish this year.

Silk Tubing Pleasing for Milady's Undervest

Silk tubing for undervests is pleasing and easily made up. This tube, cut the length desired (usually 27 inches), is hemmed with an inch hem on both ends. Ribbon shoulder straps are sewed on, and a ribbon run through the top completes the simple garment. The tubing is not always obtainable in widths over 36 inches, however.

A vest of this tubing, which gives little bulk under the corset, bloomers well fitted but large enough to give service without tearing, and a carefully fitted brassiere, make up the practical underclothing of the modern woman.

The Workmen won a tight ball game last night on the Y. M. C. A. to the tune of 3-2. Stevens bested Engbretson in the affair, allowing only four hits, to Engbretson's nine.

From the spectators' standpoint, the game was one of the finest played so far. The result was in doubt up to the last. Plenty of fast action and good plays marked game. The most exciting of the game was the fourth inning, when the Workmen got four hits in a row without a run.

Norman, first up in the fourth, singled. Schwindeman followed with a long single to left, and Norman tried to make third. Swanson relayed the ball to Thorkildson who stood with the ball in his hand as Norman steamed toward him. He was out by so far that it was actually funny. Elling followed with a long fly which Ringer took with one hand, holding Schwindeman on first. Anderson got a single, advancing Schwindeman to second. Stevens followed with a single, a Texas leaguer to right, and Dillan retrieved the ball and pegged to home, where Bollens tagged out Schwindeman trying to score.

The Y. M. C. A. was first to score, in the third. With one out, Swanson hit a hard single to center, stole second, took third on a wild pitch, and scored when Bollens attempted to bunt him in. His bunt failed to roll enough to allow him to score, and Bollens was caught at first, and on the throw to first, Swanson headed for home plate, being safe with the initial run when Schwindeman dropped Anderson's throw to the plate.

The Workmen followed in, their half of the third inning with a run. Stevens walked, went to second on R. Tucker's infield out, and scored on C. Tucker's long single.

The Y. M. C. A. made another in the fourth, Anderson and Thorkildson each getting a single; Dillan forced Anderson at third, and Orth hit to score Thorkildson. The Workmen made the other runs in the fifth, C. Tucker being safe on Peterson's error, Hegstad singled, and both scored on Norman's double into the left field weeds.

Connolly, Sox Pitcher, Is Given Medal for Bravery

Chicago, July 18.—George Connolly, White Sox pitcher, yesterday received a medal for bravery in recognition of his saving a fireman from the battleship Wyoming from drowning at San Pedro, in 1920. Connolly was a sergeant in the marines when he saved the fireman's life.

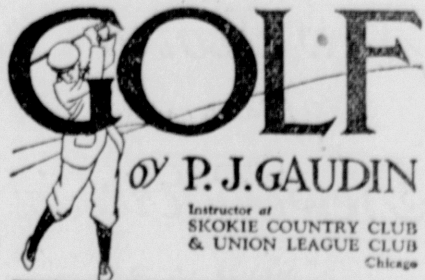

Her Recognition

Small Elizabeth and her mother were walking down the street when they saw an urchin approaching them. Elizabeth stuck out her tongue. When they had gone on, her mother inquired "Why did you stick out your tongue at that little boy we just passed." There was a pause while Elizabeth considered. "Why?" she replied, at length. "Why, mother, to show him I recognized him!"

"Rabbit" Maranville with Owners Wrigley and Veeck for Whom He Is Managing Chicago Cubs

This photograph was made when William Wrigley and William Veeck, owners of the Chicago National League club, went to New York to see their team clash with the Giants. They are shown with Walter (Rabbit) Maranville, snappy shortstop and manager.

32—Removing the "Hitch."

From the beginning golfers should adopt a plan which many an expert has found to be of the greatest value, but which seems never to have been a subject for the writers. This plan is to "slow motion" your stroke almost daily.

There is not an expert in the world who has seen his swing in the slow-motion pictures but has been surprised, and many of them horrified, at the swing as it actually was made and its being so different from what he thought he was doing. Don't attempt to hit a ball when making your own slow-motion observation of your own swing. Simply take a few practice strokes until you are "loosened up" and you feel that you are making the swing correctly. Then go through the same swing again and again, watching the stance, grip and every inch of the swing. Of course, pay no attention to the ball or the spot where the ball would be. Alternate with the slow motion and regular speed stroke but pay particular attention to the looks of every part of your body while going through the slow motion.

As often as not, you will find there is a hitch somewhere. You apparently are exactly duplicating everything in the slow motion that you did in the regular swing and find there is no hitch with the fast motion. Very probably there is no perceptible difference and the hitch of the slow motion is absent from the fast solely because the fast motion overcomes the friction which causes the hitch of the slow motion. Locate the part of your body where you feel the tenseness that causes the hitch. It may be in the arms rubbing against the body. This you can overcome by letting them just clear the body in the backward and forward swing. If the hitch comes from the legs it may be overcome by changing the stance the merest trifle. Experiment by half-inches with the position of the feet and you can locate the trouble.

The chances are all in favor of your locating the trouble in the right hand just before impact with the ball. And that means infallibly that you are gripping too hard with that hand. Loosen the grip until there is no friction and there will be no consequent hitch.

FAMOUS FORTS IN U. S. HISTORY

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

Guardian of the Trail to Santa Fe

Since Gen. Henry Leavenworth established two of the most important forts in the early days of the west, it is especially appropriate that one of them, still one of Uncle Sam's greatest military posts, should bear his name. So Fort Leavenworth in Kansas keeps alive today the memory of this gallant soldier who first distinguished himself in the War of 1812 but who won even greater laurels in the West.

By 1827 the volume of trade to the old Spanish capital of Santa Fe had become so large that the government found it necessary to take measures for its protection from hostile Indians. Accordingly General Leavenworth was ordered to establish a fort for such a purpose and he selected the present site of Fort Leavenworth. Soon afterwards the military stores at Fort Atkinson in Nebraska were removed to Fort Leavenworth and it became the principal outpost on the great trail into the Southwest.

At the outbreak of the Mexican war the "Army of the West" was organized at Fort Leavenworth and in 1846 Col. S. W. Kearney set out from this post with his dragoons on the historic march to conquer the Southwest. In 1854 Fort Leavenworth became the seat of civil as well as military government in that part of the country when Andrew H. Reeder, the first governor of Kansas, arrived there to establish the territorial government.

The next year the old fort saw Gen. W. S. Harney starting on the expedition against the Brule Sioux which resulted in the crushing defeat of these Indians at the battle of Ash-Hollow. In view of Fort Leavenworth's later prominence as a military prison, it is interesting to note that the seven Sioux chiefs who surrendered to Harney as hostages for the good conduct of their people were sent there for safekeeping. Thus these original Americans were the first to be "sent down to Leavenworth" with all the sinister meaning that those words still carry.

But for all of Fort Leavenworth's later reputation as "a good place to stay out of," in the old days it was a place of refuge for it was the eastern terminus of the Kansas stage line which ran to Denver and the Pikes Peak gold diggings, and many a passenger on one of these stages, after a thrilling ride to escape hostile Indians, drew his first free breath when he saw its friendly old walls.

A temple on the Acropolis of Selinus in Italy is to be re-erected. Originally it was 230 feet long by 85 feet wide. Six columns decorated the front, 18 the side. This particular temple occupied the most prominent place on the Acropolis. To whom it was dedicated is not known.

Record Emerald

The largest emerald known today is the Muzo stone; an uncut crystal, six-sided (as all emeralds are), about two inches long, of the same diameter, and weighing over 1,300 karats, more than nine ounces, and is owned by the duke of Devonshire.

Swore by the Beard

In the Middle Ages the seal on documents of great importance contained three hairs from the sovereign's beard as a sign that matters of much moment were concerned.

The Workmen won a tight ball game last night from the Y. M. C. A. to the tune of 3-2. Stevens bested Engbretson in the affair, allowing only four hits, to Engbretson's nine.

From the spectators' standpoint, the game was one of the finest played so far. The result was in doubt up to the last. Plenty of fast action and good plays marked game. The most exciting of the game was the fourth inning, when the Workmen got four hits in a row without a run.

Norman, first up in the fourth, singled. Schwindeman followed with a long single to left, and Norman tried to make third. Swanson relayed the ball to Thorkildson who stood with the ball in his hand as Norman steamed toward him. He was out by so far that it was actually funny. Elling followed with a long fly which Ringer took with one hand, holding Schwindeman on first. Anderson got a single, advancing Schwindeman to second. Stevens followed with a single, a Texas leaguer to right, and Dillan retrieved the ball and pegged to home, where Bollens tagged out Schwindeman trying to score.

The Y. M. C. A. was first to score, in the third. With one out, Swanson hit a hard single to center, stole second, took third on a wild pitch, and scored when Bollens attempted to bunt him in. His bunt failed to roll enough to allow him to score, and Bollens was caught at first, and on the throw to first, Swanson headed for home plate, being safe with the initial run when Schwindeman dropped Anderson's throw to the plate.

The Workmen followed in their half of the third inning with a run. Stevens walked, went to second on R. Tucker's infield out, and scored on C. Tucker's long single.

The Y. M. C. A. made another in the fourth, Anderson and Thorkildson each getting a single; Dillan forced Anderson at third, and Orth hit to score Thorkildson. The Workmen made the other runs in the fifth. C. Tucker being safe on Peterson's error, Hegstad singled, and both scored on Norman's double into the left field weeds.

Connolly, Sox Pitcher, Is Given Medal for Bravery
Chicago, July 18.—George Connolly, White Sox pitcher, yesterday received a medal for bravery in recognition of his saving a fireman from the battleship Wyoming from drowning at San Pedro, in 1920. Connolly was a sergeant in the marines when he saved the fireman's life.

Her Recognition
Small Elizabeth and her mother were walking down the street when they saw an urchin approaching them. Elizabeth stuck out her tongue. When they had gone on, her mother inquired "Why did you stick out your tongue at that little boy we just passed." There was a pause while Elizabeth considered. "Why?" she replied, at length. "Why, mother, to show him I recognized him!"

"Rabbit" Maranville with Owners Wrigley and Veeck for Whom He Is Managing Chicago Cubs

This photograph was made when William Wrigley and William Veeck, owners of the Chicago National League club, went to New York to see their team clash with the Giants. They are shown with Walter "Rabbit" Maranville, snappy shortstop and manager, removed to Fort Leavenworth and became the principal outpost on the great trail into the Southwest.

At the outbreak of the Mexican war the "Army of the West" was organized at Fort Leavenworth and in 1846 Col. S. W. Kearney set out from this post with his dragoons on the historic march to conquer the Southwest. In 1854 Fort Leavenworth became the seat of civil as well as military government in that part of the country when Andrew H. Reeder, the first governor of Kansas, arrived there to establish the territorial government.

The next year the old fort saw Gen. W. S. Harney starting on the expedition against the Brule Sioux which resulted in the crushing defeat of these Indians at the battle of Ash-Hollow. In view of Fort Leavenworth's later prominence as a military prison, it is interesting to note that the seven Sioux chiefs who surrendered to Harney as hostages for the good conduct of their people were sent there for safekeeping. Thus these original Americans were the first to be "sent down to Leavenworth" with all the sinister meaning that those words still carry.

But for all of Fort Leavenworth's later reputation as "a good place to stay out of," in the old days it was a place of refuge for it was the eastern terminus of the Kansas stage line which ran to Denver and the Pike's Peak gold diggings, and many a passenger on one of these stages, after a thrilling ride to escape hostile Indians, drew his first free breath when he saw its friendly old walls.

32—Removing the "Hitch."

From the beginning golfers should adopt a plan which many an expert has found to be of the greatest value, but which seems never to have been a subject for the writers. This plan is to "slow motion" your stroke almost daily.

There is not an expert in the world who has seen his swing in the slow-motion pictures but has been surprised, and many of them horrified, at the swing as it actually was made and its being so different from what he thought he was doing. Don't attempt to hit a ball when making your own slow-motion observation of your own swing. Simply take a few practice strokes until you are "loosened up" and you feel that you are making the swing correctly. Then go through the same swing again and again, watching the stance, grip and every inch of the swing. Of course, pay no attention to the ball or the spot where the ball would be. Alternate with the slow motion and regular speed stroke but pay particular attention to the looks of every part of your body while going through the slow motion.

As often as not, you will find there is a hitch somewhere. You apparently are exactly duplicating everything in the slow motion that you did in the regular swing and find there is no hitch with the fast motion. Very probably there is no perceptible difference and the hitch of the slow motion is absent from the fast solely because the fast motion overcomes the friction which causes the hitch of the slow motion. Locate the part of your body where you feel the tenseness that causes the hitch. It may be in the arms rubbing against the body. This you can overcome by letting them just clear the body in the backward and forward swing. If the hitch comes from the legs it may be overcome by changing the stance the merest trifle. Experiment by half-inches with the position of the feet and you can locate the trouble.

The chances are all in favor of your locating the trouble in the right hand just before impact with the ball. And that means infallibly that you are gripping too hard with that hand. Loosen the grip until there is no friction and there will be no consequent hitch.

FAMOUS FORTS IN U. S. HISTORY

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

Guardian of the Trail to Santa Fe

Since Gen. Henry Leavenworth established two of the most important forts in the early days of the west, it is especially appropriate that one of them, still one of Uncle Sam's greatest military posts, should bear his name. So Fort Leavenworth in Kansas keeps alive today the memory of this gallant soldier who first distinguished himself in the War of 1812 but who won even greater laurels in the West.

By 1827 the volume of trade to the old Spanish capital of Santa Fe had become so large that the government found it necessary to take measures for its protection from hostile Indians. Accordingly General Leavenworth was ordered to establish a fort for such a purpose and he selected the present site of Fort Leavenworth. Soon afterwards the military stores at Fort Atkinson in Nebraska were

To Re-Erect Temple

A temple on the Acropolis of Selinus in Italy is to be re-erected. Originally it was 230 feet long by 85 feet wide. Six columns decorated the front, 18 the side. This particular temple occupied the most prominent place on the Acropolis. To whom it was dedicated is not known.

Record Emerald

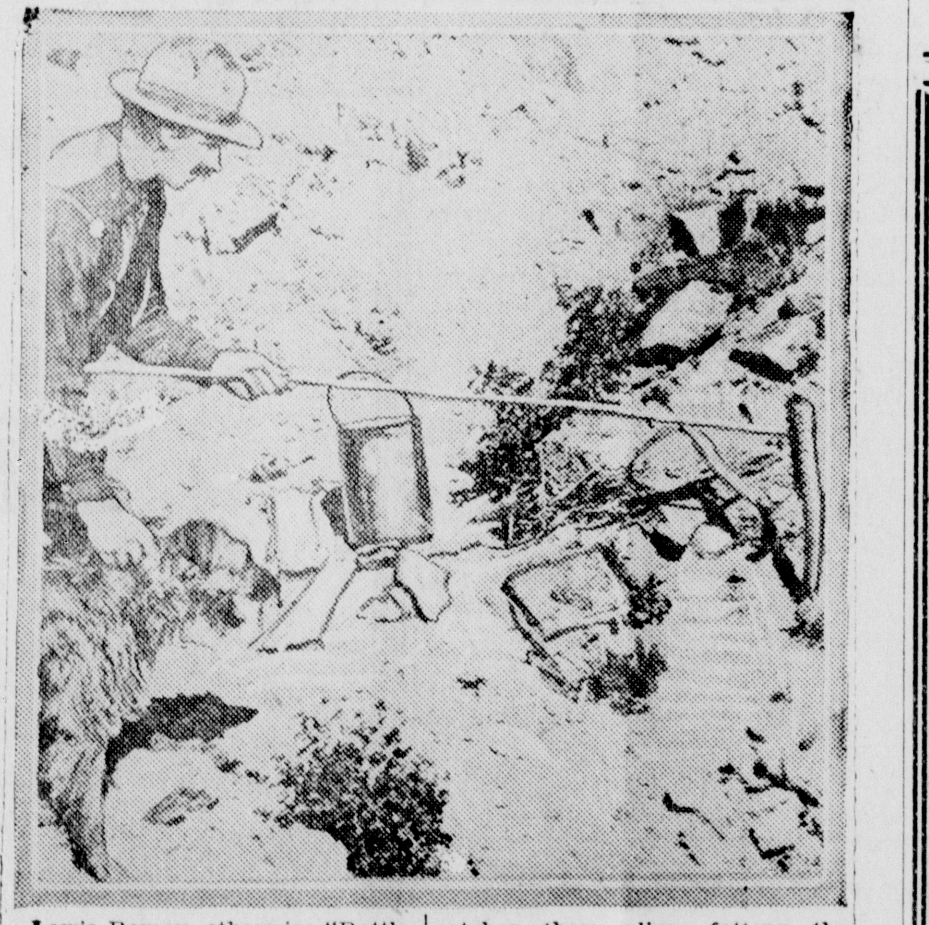

The largest emerald known today is the Muza stone; an uncut crystal, six-sided (as all emeralds are), about two inches long, of the same diameter, and weighing over 1,300 karats, more than nine ounces, and is owned by the duke of Devonshire.

Swore by the Beard

In the Middle Ages the seal on documents of great importance contained three hairs from the sovereign's beard as a sign that matters of much moment were concerned.

"Home Manager--- Purchasing Agent--- Art Director---Wife"

Just a slim girl, maybe, or a motherly woman with sweet eyes and white hair—but what a responsibility is hers!

She is the active partner in the business of running a home. She buys most of the things which go to make home life happy, healthful and beautiful. Through her slim, safe fingers goes most of the family money.

And wisely and well it is usually spent too—far better than the average man could spend it himself. For women are better purchasing agents than men. They compare prices, weigh values and shop carefully.

They read advertisements regularly. Every day you'll find the wise little home manager searching the advertising columns for news that will add to the comfort, convenience and improvement of her home. You will find the same clever purchasing agent studying the advertisements to find where and when to buy, and what and how to buy most economically. The advertisements, too, tell this responsive art director how she can make her home more beautiful, more individual—the kind of home than a man appreciates but never knows how it is done!

Crow Wing county it to be represented at the Arrowhead agricultural and industrial exposition in Duluth with two booths of exhibits, one showing the grains and grasses grown in the county, the other the mining industry on the Cuyuna range.

At the last meeting of the board of county commissioners, Kirk Smith, assistant to the county highway engineer, was selected to take charge of the grain and grass exhibit, and with the aid of County Agent E. Mr. Smith will go to Duluth Sunday to prepare the booth for the exposition which opens on Monday and continues throughout the week.

The crop of grains and grasses in Crow Wing county is exceptionally fine, and some excellent samples were obtained for the Duluth show. Large, well formed heads and long stems made it possible to prepare very attractive exhibits.

The grain exhibit will include the following: Spring wheat—Marquis and kofa; winter wheat—minneturki.

Rye—rosen and common.
Barley—two-row and six-row.
Oats—white Russian and Swedish select.

Buckwheat—Japanese and silver hull.

Flax—N. D. R.

The grass exhibit will include the following family of clovers: Alsike, medium red, mammoth red, white blossom sweet clover, and alfalfa. Tame grasses will be represented by red top and timothy, and the wild grasses by blue joint and oat grass.

Numerous pictures will complete Mr. Smith's booth, and will show views of some of the county's fine farms, her excellent highways, and last but not least, her great lake region and summer playground. For the last named Capt. W. H. Fawcett, of Breezy Point lodge, furnished a number of pictures of his resort, tinted in water colors.

The mining booth will be in charge of Hugo Brueske, it is reported, and will be most complete in every detail, with samples of iron ore, views of the various mines, and a miniature mine in operation, giving a very good idea of what is being done along this line in Crow Wing county.

Duluth announces that it is prepared to entertain about 100,000 visitors at this exposition which is to include the golden jubilee of the discovery of iron ore in Minnesota. Mayors of the principal cities in the state, several governors and high officials from Canadian cities will honor the exposition with their presence. Excellent programs have been arranged, and the city has been attired in an elaborate holiday dress for the occasion.

"TOONERVILLE FOLLIES"

12 Talented Youngsters at New Park Theatre Saturday and Sunday

While the boys and girls follow the Fox cartoons faithfully, the grown-ups are just as enthusiastic about the pictures, and many a busy business man as soon as he gets his newspaper, turns to this comic feature before studying the market quotations.

So, for old and young alike 12 talented youngsters in the "Toonerville Follies" bring the Fox characters to life on the stage, and theatregoers will see in person Tomboy Taylor, Mickey McGuire himself, members of "The Little Scorpions Club" and many others. So carefully has every detail been worked out that the Toonerville Trolley, with its flat wheel and bent stovepipe are brought on the stage. The revue is complete from the first scene to the last.

None of the juvenile performers are over 15 years of age, and are clever dancers, "blues" singers, acrobats, and comedians, everyone an artist in his or her line, and all anxious that their particular act shall "go over big" with their audience.

In addition to the "Toonerville Follies," which is not a motion picture, there will be feature films shown, a different one on each night. Milton Sills and Viola Dana appear on Saturday evening in "As a Man Desires," and on Sunday evening "Tracked in The Snow Country" gives the ever-popular police dog, Rin-Tin-Tin an opportunity to do his best acting of his career.

The public is asked to remember that the "Toonerville Follies" is a much lighter type of revue than it is usually possible to bring to Brainerd, but the management of the New Park promises that if it is well supported, others of an equal high character will follow. This big bill will be presented at popular prices.

Roads Get Only Ten Per Cent Morris Tribune

In an address at the opening of the Wendover road in Utah recently, Secretary of Agriculture Jardine pointed out the most significant factor in the development of transportation in this country, namely, the relatively small amount of money spent on roads as compared with the vast sums spent on vehicles to travel over those roads. Our transportation plant consists of roads and vehicles, "unless each without the other"—and yet while we spend generously on vehicles, we spend sparingly and grudgingly on roads. Of course the reason is not hard to find. What we spend for vehicles is a personal expenditure, while what we spend for roads we misname a tax because it is spent collectively.

From the viewpoint which it gives on the transportation problem, the following extract from Secretary Jardine's address is worthy of a double reading:

"It is doubtful if the public at large appreciates the magnitude of the problem of highway construction and operation. We are confronted much more frequently with statements as to the cost of vehicular operation over the highways. Occasionally one hears the complaint that the billion dollars, about one-tenth from federal, three-tenths from state and sixth-tenths from local sources, annually expended for highway construction and maintenance in the United States is excessive. How many of those who give voice to this complaint, I wonder, realize that the American people pay each year more than eight billion dollars for the purchase, upkeep and operation of motor vehicles? Or that the annual sales of new motor cars and trucks amounts to more than double the billion dollar expenditure for roads? Or that if all the new cars and trucks sold each year were parked in a single line on the new roads built in the same year the intervals between them would be less than fifty feet each? Yet these are simple facts. The entire cost of highway construction and upkeep is only about 10 per cent of the whole bill for highway transportation. We cannot escape that 10 per cent; for, if we do not improve and maintain the highways, the addition to the operating bill, already 90 per cent of the total, will more than offset whatever we deny the roads. In the end, if such a policy were persisted in, our fifteen billion dollars in highway rolling stock would become practically useless because of highway deterioration."

Rowland-Olson

Herman Christ Rowland and Miss Christine C. Olson were united in marriage at 8 o'clock Friday evening, July 17th, at the parsonage of the Norwegian-Danish Lutheran church, Rev. O. L. Bolstad officiating.

The couple was attended by Eldon Swearingen, of Northeast Brainerd and Miss Erma Rowland, sister of the groom.

Both contracting parties are well known in the city. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Rowland, 1602, Ninth street, Northeast, and is employed in the Northern Pacific shops. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Olson, 1223 Rosewood street, and was born and raised in the city.

The newlyweds left on a short honeymoon to Elmore and other points in the southern part of the state, and will make their home upon returning with the bride's parents.

The Dispatch joins with their many friends in offering congratulations and best wishes.

LIFE SAVING MAN IN CITY SOON

A. S. Moreau, of American Red Cross, to Give Demonstration

IN BRAINERD JULY 29-30

To be Given at Lum Park And Open to the Public

A. S. Moreau, life saving representative and demonstrator of the American Red Cross, will be in Brainerd on Wednesday and Thursday, July 29th and 30th, instead of August 10th and 11th, as was at first planned.

Mr. Moreau's demonstrations will be given at Lum park, according to the plans of the local chapter, and will be open to the public. In fact everyone is urged to attend. The Boys Band will furnish music during the demonstrations.

The Brainerd chapter of the Red Cross wishes to emphasize the importance of this demonstration, and the benefits to be derived from attending. In this community, where life is so abundant, it is important that everyone know something about life saving and first aid work.

Brainerd is very fortunate in being able to secure Mr. Moreau for these demonstrations, his time being in great demand, with very few open dates for engagements.

It is not yet known at what hours the demonstrations will be given, but it is the hope of the local chapter that they can be staged during the evening, when more people will be at liberty to attend. These details will be available in a short time, and will be published in a few days.

Bright Children Not Necessarily Delicate

The old idea that bright children are inclined to be sickly, "queer" and different from their less gifted playmates, has received a blow from the work of Dr. Lewis M. Terman, head of the department of psychology of Stanford University.

Since 1910, Doctor Terman, with the aid of 14 associates, has examined 250,000 school children. Of these, the best 1 per cent are being studied in greater detail, and their development followed as closely as possible to obtain definite knowledge of characteristics that distinguish young genius and to determine how they fulfill their early promise.

These superior children have been found to be as a class a little heavier, larger, better nourished and healthier than the average of unselected children of their age. Their ancestry is also somewhat longer lived than the average. Better proportioned physically and more stable nervously, these precocious children when actually examined have upset the old ideas.

In school work they surpass in all directions as a group and display a wider range of information. They are not freakish or irregular in their abilities. There is nothing strange or mystical in their interests outside their studies. They enjoy and play games, though they like games with thinking in them. They differ from the general run in degree rather than in any way that sets them off as fundamentally different.

Their superiority manifests itself at an early age, though it is not always discovered by teachers and given sufficient opportunity for full play in school work. Some of the children who were subjects of early studies fourteen or fifteen years ago are now demonstrating that indications of early superiority have been justified by adult ability.—Science Service.

"TOONERVILLE FOLLIES"

12 Talented Youngsters at New Park Theatre Saturday and Sunday

While the boys and girls follow the Fox cartoons faithfully, the grown-ups are just as enthusiastic about the pictures, and many a busy business man as soon as he gets his newspaper, turns to this comic feature before studying the market quotations.

So, for old and young alike 12 talented youngsters in the "Toonerville Follies" bring the Fox characters to life on the stage, and theatregoers will see in person Tomboy Taylor, Mickey McGuire himself, members of "The Little Scorpions Club" and many others. So carefully has every detail been worked out that the Toonerville Trolley, with its flat wheel and bent stovepipe are brought on the stage. The revue is complete from the first scene to the last.

None of the juvenile performers are over 15 years of age, and are clever dancers, "blues" singers, acrobats, and comedians, everyone an artist in his or her line, and all anxious that their particular act shall "go over big" with their audience.

In addition to the "Toonerville Follies," which is not a motion picture, there will be feature films shown, a different one on each night. Milton Sills and Viola Dana appear on Saturday evening in "As a Man Desires," and on Sunday evening "Tracked In The Snow Country" gives the ever-popular police dog, Rin-Tin-Tin an opportunity to do his best acting of his career.

The public is asked to remember that the "Toonerville Follies" is a much lighter type of revue than it is usually possible to bring to Brainerd, but the management of the New Park promises that if it is well supported, others of an equal high character will follow. This big bill will be presented at popular prices.

Roads Get Only Ten Per Cent

Morris Tribune

In an address at the opening of the Wendover club in Utah recently, Secretary of Agriculture Jardine pointed out the most significant factor in the development of transportation in this country, namely, the relatively small amount of money spent on roads as compared with the vast sums spent on vehicles to travel over those roads. Our transportation plant consists of roads and vehicles, "useless each without the other"—and yet while we spend generously on vehicles, we spend sparingly and grudgingly on roads. Of course the reason is not hard to find. What we spend for vehicles is a personal expenditure, while what we spend for roads we misname a tax because it is spent collectively.

From the viewpoint which it gives on the transportation problem, the following extract from Secretary Jardine's address is worthy of a double reading:

"It is doubtful if the public at large appreciates the magnitude of the problem of highway construction and operation. We are confronted much more frequently with statements as to the cost of vehicular operation over the highways. Occasionally one hears the complaint that the billion dollars, about one-tenth from federal, three-tenths from state and sixth-tenths from local sources, annually expended for highway construction and maintenance in the United States is excessive. How many of those who give voice to this complaint, I wonder, realize that the American people pay each year more than eight billion dollars for the purchase, upkeep and operation of motor vehicles? Or that the annual sales of new motor cars and trucks amounts to more than double the billion dollar expenditure for roads? Or that if all the new cars and trucks sold each year were parked in a single line on the new roads built in the same year the intervals between them would be less than fifty feet each? Yet these are simple facts. The entire cost of highway construction and upkeep is only about 10 per cent of the whole bill for highway transportation. We cannot escape that 10 per cent; for, if we do not improve and maintain the highways, the addition to the operating bill, already 90 per cent of the total, will more than offset whatever we deny the roads. In the end, if such a policy were persisted in, our fifteen billion dollars in highway rolling stock would become practically useless because of highway deterioration."

Rowland-Olson

Herman Christ Rowland and Miss Christine C. Olson were united in marriage at 8 o'clock Friday evening, July 17th, at the parsonage of the Norwegian-Danish Lutheran church, Rev. O. L. Bolstad officiating.

The couple was attended by Eldon Swearingen, of Northeast Brainerd and Miss Erma Rowland, sister of the groom.

Both contracting parties are well known in the city. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Rowland, 1602, Ninth street, Northeast, and is employed in the Northern Pacific shops. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Olson, 1223 Rosewood street, and was born and raised in the city.

The newlyweds left on a short honeymoon to Elmore and other points in the southern part of the state, and will make their home upon returning with the bride's parents.

The Dispatch joins with their many friends in offering congratulations and best wishes.

A. S. Moreau, of American Red Cross, to Give Demonstrations

IN BRAINERD JULY 29-30

To be Given at Lum Park And Open to the Public

A. S. Moreau, life saving representative and demonstrator of the American Red Cross, will be in Brainerd on Wednesday and Thursday, July 29th and 30th, instead of August 10th and 11th, as was at first planned.

Mr. Moreau's demonstrations will be given at Lum park, according to the plans of the local chapter, and will be open to the public. In fact everyone is urged to attend. The Boys Band will furnish music during the demonstrations.

The Brainerd chapter of the Red Cross wishes to emphasize the importance of this demonstration, and the benefits to be derived from attending to this community, where life is so abundant, it is important that everyone know something about life saving and first aid work.

Brainerd is very fortunate in being able to secure Mr. Moreau for these demonstrations, his time being in great demand, with very few open dates for engagements.

It is not yet known at what hours the demonstrations will be given, but it is the hope of the local chapter that they can be staged during the evening, when more people will be at liberty to attend. These details will be available in a short time, and will be published in a few days.

Bright Children Not Necessarily Delicate

The old idea that bright children are inclined to be sickly, "queer" and different from their less gifted playmates, has received a blow from the work of Dr. Lewis M. Terman, head of the department of psychology of Stanford university.

Since 1910, Doctor Terman, with the aid of 14 associates, has examined 250,000 school children. Of these, the best 1 per cent are being studied in greater detail, and their development followed as closely as possible to obtain definite knowledge of characteristics that distinguish young genius and to determine how they fulfill their early promise.

These superior children have been found to be a class a little heavier, larger, better nourished and healthier than the average of unselected children of their age. Their ancestry is also somewhat longer lived than the average. Better proportioned physically and more stable nervously, these precocious children when actually examined have upset the old ideas.

In school work they surpass in all directions as a group and display a wider range of information. They are not freakish or irregular in their abilities. There is nothing strange or mystical in their interests outside their studies. They enjoy and play games, though they like games with thinking in them. They differ from the general run in degree rather than in any way that sets them off as fundamentally different.

Their superiority manifests itself at an early age, though it is not always discovered by teachers and given sufficient opportunity for full play in school work. Some of the children who were subjects of early studies fourteen or fifteen years ago are now demonstrating that indications of early superiority have been justified by adult ability.—Science Service.

GOLF STARS AT TOURIST TOURNAMENT

WILLS STILL MUST PROVE HIMSELF

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, July 18.—Since Harry Wills toppled Charley Weinert over with a couple of pokes in the stomach you may have read many boasts of the Negro challenger. Some of them were so flattering that they almost demanded the government to send a company of Marines to Europe to bring Jack Dempsey back under guard and force him into the ring with a bayonet.

The fight with Weinert proved nothing that hadn't been known of Wills before. It showed merely that he is invincible against a set-up. If you were taller than an opponent, weighed thirty pounds more, was vastly more powerful and saw a look of stark terror in his eyes, you would do to him just what Wills did to Weinert.

Weinert was beaten when he signed the articles. It must have been the promise of more money than he had ever made in any four or five previous fights rather than any hope of avoiding a knockout that caused Weinert to take the fight. Any competent observer close to the ring could have taken one look at Weinert as he sat in his corner and put up the house and lot that he was gone.

Wills naturally looked strong and powerful because he could fight just the way he wanted to fight. He had no fear of his opponent and he had only the task of squaring his man around so that he could get a couple of good shots at him.

The only time Wills ever has made a good showing was when he was facing a big, slow, terror-stricken opponent. Any strong fighter can win when there is no offense to be guarded against. Little Bartley Madden showed what an ordinary fighter with a lot of courage can do to Wills.

Because of the tremendous difference in their size and weight, Wills might be able to beat Tunney, and Tunney right now is the only heavyweight who is qualified to dispute the claim of Wills for first consideration as a challenger for the heavyweight championship. Wills might beat Tunney, but it is doubtful that he could knock him out, and challengers force champions in action by knocking out first-class men and not by winning decisions.

Unless he has gone back a hundred miles, Jack Dempsey should not have a moment of danger in a fight against Wills. The former stevedore is the type that always has been a mark for Dempsey. Dempsey would not cover up as Weinert did when Wills came into him. Wills would not go into Dempsey with the care free abandon that he did against the panic-stricken Weinert, because Wills knows what Dempsey can do at close quarters.

PLAYS SENSATIONAL BIRDIES IN DETROIT

YOUNG KEEFE CARTER KEEPS DOWN MARTIN'S LEAD AT LOCHMOOR CLUB

(By United Press)

Lochmoor Country Club, Detroit, Mich., July 18.—Playing two sensational birdies after he played the 9th hole 4 down in the western amateur golf championship, young Keefe Carter had kept Russell Martin's lead to 2 down at the 14th only to lose the next two holes and to come 4 down on the 16th.

Carter started off, pulling his first shot into the rough on the first hole, but pulled out and halved it with a par 4. Then followed four disastrous holes. On the second where both drove well, Carter overplayed his second and took two putts, losing the hole. On the third Carter pulled his drive behind a bunker and was trapped again on his 4th shot. He finally made the hole in a 6, one less than Martin and the Chicagoan was 2 up.

Carter won the 18th hole with birdie 3 and the two went to dinner with Martin leading 3 up.

Carter Strong in Afternoon

Lochmoor Country Club, Detroit, Mich., July 18.—Starting the afternoon round, young Keefe Carter cut Russell Martin's margin to 2 up when he took the first hole with birdie 3 to Martin's 4. The two halved the second hole with par fours.

FIRST FOURSOME WORTH GOING MILES TO SEE

FRED BARBER OF BREEZY POINT, CALIFORNIA CHAMPION, TO PARTICIPATE

FATHER REMMIS, WHO NEARLY EQUALLED HAGEN RECORD, TO LEAD FOURSOME

Leaders on the card for tomorrow's big golf tournament, at which all tourists are to be the guests of the Brainerd Country club, will include some of the high score artists of their own clubs back home. One of these players is D. Reams, of Topeka, Kansas, who is very enthusiastic over the prospects of tomorrow's tournament. Mr. Reams is a former college athletic coach, and an ardent golfer.

Father Walter Remmis, who shot within five points of Walter Hagen at Breezy Point Thursday, will lead the first four-some on Sunday afternoon. Fred Barber of Los Angeles, California champion, professional at Breezy Point course, will also be in this four-some, and it is expected that it will be a match well worth witnessing.

Everything is in readiness for the reception and entertainment of the tourists at tomorrow's tournament. The tournament committee has spared nothing to make this the biggest event of the season in golf circles. The weather man is the only one who has not been consulted. But if it rains hard on Sunday afternoon, the tournament will be postponed until the next Saturday, July 25th. It cannot be held on the following Sunday, since the local club goes to Little Falls on that day.

This means that it must rain real hard on Sunday afternoon to make it imperative that the tournament be postponed, as Groundskeeper Cox has an extra man assisting him, and can whip the greens into fine shape in mighty short order following a lightning rain.

53 Tourist Players Registered, More Expected

Tourists are looking forward to Sunday afternoon's tournament with keen anticipation. Fifty-three summer visitors have registered with the groundskeeper since Monday, and all are very enthusiastic about the coming event. Golfers from all sections of the United States will rub elbows and be matched in the foursomes. It will be a great gala day for tourists tomorrow.

Tournament Starts at 1 P. M.

The country club grounds are to be open to the general public on Sunday morning, until 1 o'clock in the afternoon, and everyone is invited to make full use of the golf course until that hour. At 1 o'clock the links will be closed to the public and put in readiness for the tournament which starts just as soon after 1 o'clock as possible. There is to be no charge whatever for any of the club's courtesies on Sunday. The public, and especially the tourists, are given the use of the course absolutely free.

Through the courtesy of the local business houses prizes have been secured for each one of the numerous events in which the tourists are to participate. The merchants have also donated sufficient provisions for the luncheon which is to be tendered complimentary to the tourists by the club immediately after the tournament closes.

Call For Caddies

The committee asks that caddies report promptly at 1 o'clock. The caddies will be in great demand, it is believed, and boys of the city whether they have caddied before or not, are asked to turn out and report to the tournament committee at the club promptly at 1 o'clock. The fee will be 35 cents for the course.

PROBABLE LINE-UP OF THE LOCAL TEAM IS GIVEN

HOUGE, HOME RUN HITTER, IS TO BE GIVEN A TRY-OUT

Staples is coming to Brainerd tomorrow ready to avenge last week's defeat at the hands of the Brainerd team. The game is sure to be another tight affair, especially if the weather is warm. Fielder, Staples' hurler, is a warm-weather artist, and fans will be treated to a fine exhibition if he gets his favorite brand of temperature.

With the addition to the line-up of the Brainerd team, the aggregation takes on more the aspects of a real city team. Local fans can have a real heart interest in the team in knowing that many of the players are home products and all of them are Brainerd citizens.

A new face may appear in the line-up. Manager Whiting has been in communication with a player named Houge, of Pequot, who two years ago played in 97 games with Austin and Mankato in southern Minnesota. In those 97 games he connected for 34 home runs. He is coming to Brainerd tomorrow for a try-out. He may be seen at any one of three positions, being a catcher, first baseman and outfielder.

GOLF STARS AT TOURIST TOURNAMENT

WILLS STILL MUST PROVE HIMSELF

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, July 18.—Since Harry Wills toppled Charley Weinert over with a couple of pokes in the stomach you may have read many boasts of the Negro challenger. Some of them were so flattering that they almost demanded the government to send a company of Marines to Europe to bring Jack Dempsey back under guard and force him into the ring with a bayonet.

The fight with Weinert proved nothing that hadn't been known of Wills before. It showed merely that he is invincible against a set-up. If you were taller than an opponent, weighed thirty pounds more, was vastly more powerful and saw a look of stark terror in his eyes, you would do to him just what Wills did to Weinert.

Weinert was beaten when he signed the articles. It must have been the promise of more money than he had ever made in any four or five previous fights rather than any hope of avoiding a knockout that caused Weinert to take the fight. Any competent observer close to the ring could have taken one look at Weinert as he sat in his corner and put up the house and lot that he was gone.

Wills naturally looked strong and powerful because he could fight just the way he wanted to fight. He had no fear of his opponent and he had only the task of squaring his man around so that he could get a couple of good shots at him.

The only time Wills ever has made a good showing was when he was facing a big, slow, terror-stricken opponent. Any strong fighter can win when there is no offense to be guarded against. Little Bartley Madden showed what an ordinary fighter with a lot of courage can do to Wills.

Because of the tremendous difference in their size and weight, Wills might be able to beat Tunney, and Tunney right now is the only heavyweight who is qualified to dispute the claim of Wills for first consideration as a challenger for the heavyweight championship. Wills might beat Tunney, but it is doubtful that he could knock him out, and challengers force champions in action by knocking out first-class men and not by winning decisions.

Unless he has gone back a hundred miles, Jack Dempsey should not have a moment of danger in a fight against Wills. The former stevedore is the type that always has been a mark for Dempsey. Dempsey would not cover up as Weinert did when Wills came into him. Wills would not go into Dempsey with the care free abandon that he did against the panic-stricken Weinert, because Wills knows what Dempsey can do at close quarters.

PLAYS SENSATIONAL BIRDIES IN DETROIT

YOUNG KEEFE CARTER KEEPS DOWN MARTIN'S LEAD AT LOCHMOOR CLUB

(By United Press)
Lochmoor Country Club, Detroit, Mich., July 18.—Playing two sensational birdies after he played the 9th hole 4 down in the western amateur golf championship, young Keefe Carter had kept Russell Martin's lead to 2 down at the 14th only to lose the next two holes and to come 4 down on the 16th.

Carter started off, pulling his first shot into the rough on the first hole, but pulled out and halved it with a par 4. Then followed four disastrous holes. On the second where both drove well, Carter overplayed his second and took two putts, losing the hole. On the third Carter pulled his drive behind a bunker and was trapped again on his 4th shot. He finally made the hole in a 6, one less than Martin and the Chicagoan was 2 up.

Carter won the 18th hole with birdie 3 and the two went to dinner with Martin leading 3 up.

Carter Strong in Afternoon

Lochmoor Country Club, Detroit, Mich., July 18.—Starting the afternoon round, young Keefe Carter cut Russell Martin's margin to 2 up when he took the first hole with birdie 3 to Martin's 4. The two halved the second hole with par fours.

TENNIS STARS MEET ON GLENCOE COURTS

(By United Press)
Glencoe, Ill., July 18.—International stars of tennis will festoon the brick red courts at the Skokie country club here, July 19, when the Illinois state tennis tournament gets underway.

der way. Nine of the first ten ranking American players are entered, Maurice Miller, chairman of the committee, announced. This will make the event one of the two big national clay court tournaments of the year.

In addition to Tilden, Richards, the Kinseys, and other American topnotchers, J. O. Anderson and Gerald Patterson, members of Austria's Davis cup team, are to compete. California will be represented in the tournament by "Little Bill" Johnston, the Kinsey brothers, Harvey Snodgrass, and Clarence Griffin. George Lott, Jr., Chicago's 18-year-old wonder of the courts, will be Chicago's chief contender. Luke Williams, who was eliminated in the Wimbledon tournament, also is to represent Chicago.

B. L. C. Norton, rated as the eighth best player in America, is coming from St. Louis. Wray Brown, Missouri Valley champion, will come with him. More than 300 entries had been received when the lists closed. Special stands have been erected to hold the greatest crowd that has ever witnessed tennis matches in the middle west. Competition will be in nine divisions: men's singles and doubles, women's singles and doubles, Junior's singles and doubles, boys' singles and doubles, and girls' singles. Bill Tilden's proteges, Sandy Wiener, Walter Thomas, and the McGlynns, are to compete in the juvenile groups.

Shade To Box Barrett At Phillies' Park On July 27

FIRST FOURSOME WORTH GOING MILES TO SEE

FRED BARBER OF BREEZY POINT, CALIFORNIA CHAMPION, TO PARTICIPATE

FATHER REMMIS, WHO NEARLY EQUALLED HAGEN RECORD, TO LEAD FOURSOME

Leaders on the card for tomorrow's big golf tournament, at which all tourists are to be the guests of the Brainerd Country club, will include some of the high score artists of their own clubs back home. One of these players is D. Reams, of Topeka, Kansas, who is very enthusiastic over the prospects of tomorrow's tournament. Mr. Reams is a former college athletic coach, and an ardent golfer.

Father Walter Remmis, who shot within five points of Walter Hagen at Breezy Point Thursday, will lead the first four-some on Sunday afternoon. Fred Barber of Los Angeles, California champion, professional at Breezy Point course, will also be in this four-some, and it is expected that it will be a match well worth witnessing.

Everything is in readiness for the reception and entertainment of the tourists at tomorrow's tournament. The tournament committee has spared nothing to make this the biggest event of the season in golf circles. The weather man is the only one who has not been consulted. But if it rains hard on Sunday afternoon, the tournament will be postponed until the next Saturday, July 25th. It cannot be held on the following Sunday, since the local club goes to Little Falls on that day.

This means that it must rain real hard on Sunday afternoon to make it imperative that the tournament be postponed, as Groundskeeper Cox has an extra man assisting him, and can whip the greens into fine shape in mighty short order following a light rain.

53 Tourist Players Registered, More Expected

Tourists are looking forward to Sunday afternoon's tournament with keen anticipation. Fifty-three summer visitors have registered with the groundskeeper since Monday, and all are very enthusiastic about the coming event. Golfers from all sections of the United States will rub elbows and be matched in the foursomes. It will be a great gala day for tourists tomorrow.

Tournament Starts at 1 P. M.

The country club grounds are to be open to the general public on Sunday morning, until 1 o'clock in the afternoon, and everyone is invited to make full use of the golf course until that hour. At 1 o'clock the links will be closed to the public and put in readiness for the tournament which starts just as soon after 1 o'clock as possible. There is to be no charge whatever for any of the club's courtesies on Sunday. The public, and especially the tourists, are given the use of the course absolutely free.

Through the courtesy of the local business houses prizes have been secured for each one of the numerous events in which the tourists are to participate. The merchants have also donated sufficient provisions for the luncheon which is to be tendered complimentary to the tourists by the club immediately after the tournament closes.

Call For Caddies
The committee asks that caddies report promptly at 1 o'clock. The caddies will be in great demand, it is believed, and boys of the city whether they have caddied before or not, are asked to turn out and report to the tournament committee at the club promptly at 1 o'clock. The fee will be 35 cents for the course.

A complete resume of the tournament will be given in Monday's Dispatch, together with the names of the tourists participating, the foursomes, and the scores made.

YALE HAS STAR IN HOWARD PAULSEN

Yale university has a promising quarter-miler in Howard Paulsen. He should prove one of the fastest men at the distance in eastern college circles next season. He's pretty consistent around 49 seconds.

STAPLES TO PLAY BRAINERD HERE SUNDAY

PROBABLE LINE-UP OF THE LOCAL TEAM IS GIVEN

HOUGE, HOME RUN HITTER, IS TO BE GIVEN A TRY-OUT

PROBABLE LINE-UP FOR SUNDAY'S GAME

Catcher—Norman.
Pitcher—Jones or Work.
First Base—Hanson.
Second Base—Uddenberg.
Third Base—Stallman.
Short Stop—Peterson.
Left Field—Imgrund.
Center Field—McAlpine.
Utility—Swanson and Houge.

Staples is coming to Brainerd tomorrow ready to avenge last week's defeat at the hands of the Brainerd team. The game is sure to be another tight affair, especially if the weather is warm. Fielder, Staples' hurler, is a warm-weather artist, and fans will be treated to a fine exhibition if he gets his favorite brand of temperature.

With the addition to the line-up of the Brainerd team, the aggregation takes on more the aspects of a real city team. Local fans can have a real heart interest in the team in knowing that many of the players are home products and all of them are Brainerd citizens.

A new face may appear in the line-up. Manager Whiting has been in communication with a player named Houge, of Pequot, who two years ago played in 97 games with Austin and Mankato in southern Minnesota. In those 97 games he connected for 34 home runs. He is coming to Brainerd tomorrow for a try-out. He may be seen at any one of three positions, being a catcher, first baseman and outfielder.

Jones will get the call for mound duty when the curtain goes up on the classic of the diamond, opposing Fielder of Staples. Last Sunday these same two travelled the full route in one of the prettiest duels seen at the neighboring town, with Jones emerging on top, allowing four hits and winning his game 2-1.

Fans are urged to come out for the game. The time is 2:30 tomorrow. The diamond is being rolled and put in good shape, the grass is being cut, and everything is being done to assure the fans a real treat.

17 YEAR OLD ROCHESTER GIRL LEADS GOLFERS

St. Paul, July 18.—Gertrude Boothby, 17-year-old Rochester girl, is leading Mrs. L. F. Korfage, Town and Country Club veteran, 2 up at the end of the morning round in the finals of the State Women's Golf Championship. Both golfers, playing a consistent game throughout the tournament, were getting long drives on the first 18 holes this morning. The Rochester star excelled with the irons, laying down several well-played approach shots.
